Project

Field(s) Classical music, Opera, Audience development, Education

Description We would like to organize a summer school for young opera singers, répétiteurs and conductors, and for professionals also (in connection to their activities as mentors). All partners together should be working together on opera production at the end of the project, and working on building the new visual identity of opera (especially in the field of digital art) making it acceptable, mobile and appealing as wider as possible. Chamber music is, of course, a big part of the project.

The project is not fully developed and we are open for cooperation on the concept of the project.
